

Benelli

67's

Benelli is the Italian answer to Honda. These flashy, light-weight machines have been designed to capture the American market. The cycles are cleanly designed and beautifully finished. The single cylinder is horizontally mounted for a lower center of gravity. Because of the engine design and mounting, the cycles are excellent road-holding machines. The front forks are of the telescopic design. One unattractive feature that the Benelli shares with many Italian cycles is a small seat. The small seat is uncomfortable to most riders •
